MEDITATION OF THE DAY

“Do Not Worry”

Saint Ignatius of Antioch

(Feast Day October 17)

There is only one Physician, both carnal and spiritual, born and unborn, God became man, true life in death; sprung both from Mary and from God, first subject to suffering and then incapable of it - Jesus Christ Our Lord...

Even the things you do in the flesh are spiritual, for you do all things in union with Jesus Christ... You consider yourselves stones of the Father's temple, prepared for the edifice of God the Father, to be taken aloft by the hoisting engine of Jesus Christ, that is, the cross, while the Holy Spirit serves you as a rope; your faith is your spiritual windlass and your love the road which leads up to God. And thus you all are fellow travelers, God-bearers and temple-bearers, Christ-bearers and bearers of holiness, with the commandments of Jesus Christ for festival attire. At this I am jubilant, privileged as I am to converse with you through this letter, and to congratulate you because in your other worldliness you love nothing but God alone.

But pray unceasingly also for the rest of men for they offer ground for hoping that they may be converted and win their way to God. Give them an opportunity therefore, at least by your conduct, by becoming your disciples. Meet their angry outbursts with your own gentleness, their boastfulness with your humility, the revilings with your prayers, their error with your constancy in the faith, their harshness with your meekness; and beware of trying to match their example. Let us prove ourselves their brothers through courtesy. Let us strive to follow the Lord's example and see who can suffer greater wrong, who more deprivation, who more contempt. Thus no weed of the devil will be found among you; but you will persevere in perfect chastity and sobriety through Jesus Christ, in body and soul.

Meditation from the Handmaids of the Precious Blood

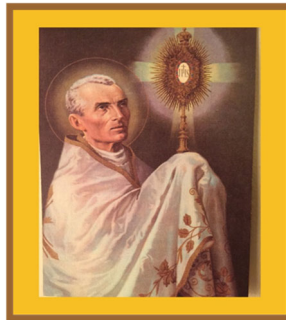

Gates, statues, lights, rocks, even our Stations of the Cross, all find themselves made overnight into complex resorts and condominiums as if they were delighting in our discovery of them at first sight.

Spend some time examining an intricate web next time it appears full of miniscule water droplets in the sun. Start thinking about scale an effort. Symmetry. Radicals. degrees, Spacing. How big is the spider? How many body links is the width of the web? And its main supporting strands? How many rows were stringed into this? How many trips back and forth, back and forth, back and forth? What would be the human equivalent? A man in a car drives through a fast food restaurant serving window to get a package much smaller than he is and gets it in minutes. What if, to get that hamburger, he had to knit/crochet/sew a loose fitting blanket the size of a traffic intersection? And hang it up right, just right to capture a little hamburger? What if, the moment he did so, it tore in the wind and he had to fix it or go hungry? What if he had to be almost invisible to work?

Perhaps God teaches us lessons not only with spider webs but with these eight-legged architects, spiders, themselves. Hidden strength, masterful planning, obscure labor, contentedness in smallness and hiddenness, and right rock-solid unstinting diligence. Almost sounds like a plan for growing in holiness, doesn't it?
